What our Clients say about us

"Pinnacle Law have been fantastic throughout the sale of my property. Their communication was quick and efficient and would send regular updates. They were always happy to answer any of my queries and guide me through the process of selling. I would 100% recommend them." - Lucy

"Finding a good conveyancer is really hard, I wish I'd found them sooner. I'd used different conveyancers for my previous 4 purchases and they were all terrible. Honestly can't recommend them highly enough, I'm already spreading the word with my friends!" - Oscar

"We'd had a terrible experience with a previous Solicitors when selling our London flat and in the end because of constant delays we lost our buyer. We decided to look elsewhere and someone recommended Pinnacle Law. They are a breath of fresh air, communicative, efficient and extremely competent with a calm and diplomatic approach, they just got the job done and were always on hand for advice, we absolutely loved working with them, they guided us to the finish line with our challenging buyer. I would have no hesitation in recommending the team at Pinnacle. The process is stressful enough and the last thing you want is to have to worry about the effectiveness of your Conveyancing team." - Anita

Our Guarantees to You

- This is a fixed fee that will never increase as your move progresses, so you can rest assured there won't be any hidden or unexpected admin charges added later.
- No move, no fee! If either of your transactions falls through, we will pick up where we left off with a new property at no extra cost.
- No up-front cost! We only charge for our services when you complete.

Payment Terms

Payment terms are very simple: there is no upfront cost to you, and no deposit payment is required. Once you have completed our instruction form, we will simply get to work.

Payment of our fees is only made if your transaction is successful and legal completion is achieved. You will be asked to pay our invoice just before you pick up your keys.

If your transaction is not successful for any reason at all, we do not charge you any abortive costs at all. The logic here is not that we work for free, but rather that if you do not complete with these properties, you will likely look to another one soon, and we would like to keep you as a client for your next options.

How is this different from other Conveyancing quotes?

Our fee is a fully comprehensive, fixed and guaranteed price for our service. It never changes, even if complexities in the work are identified at a later date, which increases the amount of work that is required. We never charge you any more than we have quoted you here upfront.

What other costs and fees do I need to consider?

Fees payable to a mortgage broker - If you use a mortgage broker, they may charge a fee for finding and arranging the right mortgage deal for you. Some brokers are paid purely by the lender, while others charge a flat fee or percentage to the buyer. In many cases, a good broker can save you far more than they cost — but it's still something to budget for upfront so there are no surprises later.

Mortgage arrangement fees and charges payable to the Lender - Lender fees are charged by the mortgage lender as part of your loan. These can include arrangement fees, booking fees, application fees, or survey and valuation fees - these are all different names for essentially the same thing. Sometimes they can be added to the mortgage rather than paid upfront. However, adding them to the loan means you'll pay interest on them over time. It's worth checking what your lender charges and how you plan to pay it.

If leasehold, admin fees payable to the landlord or management company - If there is a management company, it is normal for them to charge some extra admin fees, payable directly to them. Some conveyancers add on extra handling fees or admin fees to process this, but we don't do that, and any work related to this, if it is required, is included in our quote.

Registration fees payable to the Land Registry on completion - The Land Registry will charge a fee to process your purchase registration. This Government charge applies to all people who have to update property ownership records at the Land Registry. It's paid to HM Land Registry, not your conveyancer. We will be able to help you know what the value of this fee is once your file is open and we have enough information to check this, as the fee is based on different scales and application types.

Taxes due, such as Stamp Duty Land Tax - Stamp Duty is the transaction tax the Government charges on property and land transactions. Please note that stamp duty can be a highly complex tax, and we will not be able to make a full assessment until we have opened your file fully. We suggest you research this, and a good starting point is the Government online calculator, a link to this can be found here -> https://www.tax.service.gov.uk/calculate-stamp-duty-land-tax

Any indemnity insurance policies that may be needed during the legal process - You may decide to solve small or low-risk legal issues with insurance, which is known as indemnity insurance. Most firms will charge a 'finding' or 'setting' fee if this is required, but we can arrange this for you at no extra cost, other than the insurance policy itself, which will only be payable on completion. We'll let you know as soon as possible if an indemnity policy is needed or might help save you time

Removal fees to move items into the property on completion - Moving costs include everything involved in physically getting your belongings from your current home to your new one. That might mean a professional removals company, packing materials, storage, or even additional charges such as parking restrictions or congestion zones. These can vary widely depending on distance, how much you own, and how much help you need — but they always arrive right at the end of the process, so it's wise to plan ahead.

FAQ

Is this really a fixed fee quote?

Our fee is a fully comprehensive, fixed and guaranteed price for our service. It never changes, even if complexities in the work are identified at a later date, which increases the amount of work that is required. We never charge you any more than we have quoted you here, upfront.

Other companies claim to offer a 'fixed fee' too - how is your quote different?

A common pricing structure in conveyancing is to offer a basic 'base' conveyancing legal fee, which is 'fixed', and then increase the overall price paid with 'add-ons' depending on what applies to the property transaction. This way, the quote can claim to be 'fixed' but is increased far beyond the basic price with all these extra charges. We do not feel that is a fair or transparent practice. For you as a Client, it is important to know exactly what you are paying, and whom you are paying it to. If your 'fixed legal fee' is £500 plus VAT, but you end up paying the Law Firm 3x or 4x times that in total, is it really common sense, or fair, to call this price 'fixed'?

Do you take any upfront payments or deposit payments for your costs?

Payment terms are very simple - there is no upfront cost to you, and no deposit is required. At your request, we will simply get to work. Payment of our fees is only made if your transaction is successful and legal completion is achieved. You will be asked to pay our invoice upon completion.

What happens if my transactions fall through? Do I still need to pay you?

No, we do not charge abortive costs. If your transaction is not successful for any reason, be that your decision, the decision of a third party, or any other reason, we do not charge you any abortive costs at all. The logic here is not that we work for free, but rather that if you do not complete on this property, you will likely look to move to another one soon, and we would like to keep you as a client for the next time.

I have found a cheaper quote. What is the other quote missing to make it cheaper?

In short, it is probably not that much cheaper! Very 'cheap' quotes often misrepresent the total costs by showing a cheap 'base' fee but making it up with add on charges either within the quote (but have different names so perhaps it is unclear that they are legal fees) or by adding on charges from a menu of charges at the end of the process that are hidden within the T&Cs or worse, not disclosed at all. Just from a business perspective, there is a functional minimum that all Conveyancers have to charge; otherwise, it is impossible to run the business. We accept that it will be possible to find slightly cheaper conveyancing quotes, but do consider - do you want to trust such an important sale and purchase with a Firm that chooses not to disclose true costs upfront to you, and is a few hundred pounds really worth the trade off in lost time, stress and lack of support for such an important legal transaction?

I have found much more expensive quotes. Why is yours so much cheaper?

A leading cause of higher conveyancing costs is ‘referral fees’ or ‘kickbacks’ to third parties that Clients unknowingly subsidise. Often these referral fees can be many hundreds of pounds, up to half of the actual legal fee. If a business is giving away half its fee from day one, it must naturally charge much more to cover its costs. Pinnacle is an independent Law Firm, and we never pass referral fees onto clients; we have a strict cap on the amount we pay for introduction and marketing costs. If a quote appears substantially higher without a clear reason, it is worth considering the Law Firm's independence and investigating any introduction fees or kickbacks being paid ‘behind the scenes’ and passed to you in the quote.

So, do you pay referral fees or not?

We want you to know that we pay referral fees as part of our marketing budget. We have stringent internal guidelines on what is considered reasonable. As an independent law firm, we have refused to work with many industry partners, such as estate agents and mortgage brokers, because they demand referral fees above our cap. We prefer to do business this way so we can stick to our core values, fairness and transparency. More importantly, we never pass referral costs back to Clients, and our fees remain fixed, so you know you are always getting a fair deal.

How do I accept the quote and get started?

So that we can open your file and begin working, please click the blue instruction form link and complete the online form. The information form should take around 5 minutes to complete, and once submitted, gives us the needed information to open your file and move forward.

What are the next steps in the process?

Once you have completed the instruction form in the quote, and we have opened the file, we will send to you our ‘Welcome Pack’ which will include a list of tasks for us to work through together. We will also contact any third parties that we need to reach out to in order to move the process forward, like the estate agent, your mortgage broker and lender etc.

Who will I work with and who will be my points of contact going forward?

Once we have more information about your case, we will ‘triage’ this and make sure we have a really clear picture of your requirements and the work involved. Once we know this, we will pair you with a lawyer within the business, that is best suited to your particular circumstances and the transaction itself. You will always have two dedicated, named persons, to contact. At any point either one of your named contacts will be able to assist you with any help needed, in case the other is unavailable. This way you always have an immediate point of contact and we find this to be a good system.

Do you have capacity to handle my case?

We very carefully monitor the volume of new clients we take on each month, and have very strict caps for how many clients we have at one time, as a business. If we have reached the cap on clients at any given time, we do make the decision to stop sending out quotes whilst we process our work. If you have received this quote, it means we are currently taking on more clients.

Do you have the expertise to handle my case?

We are a specialist Council for Licensed Conveyancers (CLC) regulated Law Firm and conveyancing is all we do, so we are absolute experts in this space. As a group, we have collectively processed tens of thousands of transactions, and have over 120 years of experience. As a client, you will benefit from all of this, as whilst we do dedicate individual lawyers to your matter, we do work as a team within the business. It is not likely that your matter has any elements that we have not seen before or that we cannot assist with. From your perspective, we completely understand that buying a home is a new process, or at least one you do not undertaken often, but for us, we do this every day, and so you can be assured that we can help!

We hope this information was helpful and we look forward to working with you on your matters.

If you have any more questions, please book a call with our Sales Team, and we can discuss the specific details of your matter together.
